* THE TIMES DAILY SERIAL STORY.

"THE DIAMONDS"

By J. S. FLETCHER

CHAPTER XXI.

A Quick-Change Artist.

R. RICHARD CLAYE, as Miss Driscoll had wisely observed, was an uncommon thief. The younger son of a gentleman, been turned out of his father's at the age of 17 with 100 pounds cockets and permission to provide aself in future.

The provided for himself ever and notwithstanding the ups and soda."

You, Rafferty, bring in the gentleman's trunks or bags, or what the devil it is he's carrying. And what'll you take.
Jim, old man?" he continued when the coast had been cleared and he and Mr.
Claye were safely closeted together. "A B, and S, or a drop of the wine of this country?"

"For heaven sake no!" answeted Mr.
Claye, heaking a wry face. "I can stand as much whisky at night as would iloat a gunboat, but I bar spirits in the morning, unless it's a brandy-andsoda." he had been turned out of his father's he had been turned out of his father's house at the age of 17 with 100 pounds in his pockets and permission to provide for himself in future.

He had provided for himself ever since, and notwithstanding the ups and downs of a career which afforded great scope for variety and adventure, had done himself very well. He had played many parts in his time, and had never set any great store by honesty, and one of the things which proved him to be uncommon was the fact that he saw no necessity for honor among thieves.

In securing the diamonds in his own way, and in appropriating them to his own use, Mr. Claye conceived that he was doing quite the right thing. He knew well enough that if Ninian Baxendale could have effected the robbery himself he would have done so without any help from him; he also knew that Ninian would keep the whole of the proceeds of the robbery if he only got the chance to do so; therefore, the Mr. Claye had the indisputable right to treat Ninian as Ninian would have treated him.

He did not take the trouble to reckon up any accounts between them—he merely put his friend and his fellow—conspirator completely out of mind as seen as he found that he had no further onspirator completed on spirator completed on sale for him.

Until the exact moment where in Mr. Claye discovered that the diamonds were as good as his, he had meant to share with his young friends—not in equal shares, perhaps, for that would have been unjust, seeing that he, Mr. Claye, was responsible for most of the work and trouble, but at any rate in some way.

"No" answered Mr. Claye. He sipped at his drink again and his eyes became meditative. "Joe," he continued presently, "I want to lay quiet for a day or two and to change my identity. A little matter of business, you understand."

"Right you are, my boy," said Mr. There's nothing there's in some way.

But when Ninian Baxendale, as a unit of any value, dropped clean out out the matter (that stage of the proceedings being reached when Mr. Claye realized that the diamonds were to all intents and purposes at his disposal), the section partner took over the entire.

But when Ninian Baxendale, as a unit of any value, dropped clean out out the matter (that stage of the proceedings being reached when Mr. Claye realized that the diamonds were to all intents and purposes at his disposal), the senior partner took over the entire concern in his own way and forgot that his junior existed.

He did not even give him any consideration in the matter of settling his hotel bill.

Mr. Clave had secured the diamonds in very simple fashion. At exactly jo'clock in the morning, by which time he knew that Miss Driscoll would be under the complete influence of the powerful narcotic which he had sprinkled about her pillow and night gown, he repaired to her door, turned the key from without by the use of a pair of steel tweezers, and forced the success of his plans that his first proceeding on entering the room was to close and lock the door, turn on the electric light, and immediately set to work to repair the boilt plate. He knew quite well that Miss Driscoll would have slept through a rallway accident or the worst sort of thunderstorm, for he had tested that particular species of narcotic before. So he made the door safe before he secured the diamonds just as swilly as he had obtained access to the when the thing came to be looked into. He secured the diamonds just as easily as he had obtained access to the vindow. And that, withing he made to the complete induced the when the thing came to be looked into. He secured the diamonds just as easily as he had obtained access to the vindow. And that, was a very easy thing indeed. He had examined the exterior of the premises earlier in the evening, and had made his preparations.

Outside the window was a ledge sufficiently broad to allow as affe foothold, and it was no difficult task for Mr. Claye to climb out of the casement, recipied in the stairs he looked up.

Outside the window was a ledge sufficiently broad to allow a safe foothold, and it was no difficult task for Mr. Claye to climb out of the casement, reclose it to the exact inch at which Miss Driscoll had left it open, and traverse the slight space between her room and his.

That accomplished, Mr. Claye had mixed himself a tumbler of whisky and water, drunk it off with great relish, and gone to sleep, feeling that he had accomplished a good night's work.

As for the diamond necklace, it reposed beneath his pillow, in company with his watch and chain and purse, for Mr Claye believed in keeping his property as close to him as possible when he slept in strange houses.

He woke very early next morning.

when he slept in strange houses.

He woke very early next morning, took a cold bath, shaved, dressed, ate a hearty breakfast, left a message for his young friend, Mr. Somerville, who at that moment was also entirely under the influence of Mr. Clarket who steed the landord's encomiums were deserved.

It was a very different looking and looked at himself again and he felt that the landord's encomiums were deserved.

It was a very different looking and looked at himself again and he felt that the landord's encomiums were deserved.

Claye who steed the looking and looked at himself again and he felt that the landord's encomiums were deserved.

ageress.

And like the great man he was, Mr. Claye proceeded straight to Kingsbridge, knowing quite well that if a hue and cry should be raised after him rather earlier than he had expected, Kingsbridge would be the last place in which they would look for him, simply because he had told the manageress he was going there.

On the departure platform at Kings-drink. The merit of various tipples was freely extolled in the window; on the signboard over the door appeared the name Phelim Hanrahan.

A red-headed boy, lazily wielding a broom, was sweeping the threshold of this establishment when Mr. Claye drove up, and he evinced no surprise at seeing the arrival at such an early hour of the morning. In answer to Mr. Claye's inquiries, he replied that the master had just risen and was in the shop, and at that Mr. Claye bade the jarvey bring the traps inside.

Then he himself walked in, and, passing through the outer shop in a fashion which showed that he knew his whereabouts, pushed over a door and entered an inner sanctum, where he discovered a very tall, very stout man engaged in pouring the contents of a large bottle of soda water into a tumbler of ample proportions which already contained a liberal allowance of brandy.

The large, tall man looked up and stared at his visitor half angrily, then as he recognized him through the somewhat gloomy atmosphere of the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and he set down his bottle of sanctum at the sanctum has been seen and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and he set down his bottle of sanctum at the sanctum has been seen and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and he set down his bottle of sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and the set down his bottle of sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and the set down his bottle of sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and the set down his bottle of sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and the set down his bottle of sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and his large to the sanctum his face relaxed in what sloomy atmosphere of the sanctum his face relaxed into a broad grin and he set down his bottle of soda water and his large tumbler and and stretched out a hand that closely reesmbled a small leg of mutton.

"Jim!" said he, in a voice that was thoroughly and unmistakably English. "Who'd ha' thought o' seeing you here, old pal! Just come across, eh! Well, my boy, you're in time for what our Scottish friends call our 'mornin'. What'll you take, Jim Give it a name."

"Wait till I pay the jarvey Joe." answered Mr. Claye, who had gripped his friend's hand with as much enthusiasm as the friend had displayed. "I've got a trap or two that I want to bring terda the morning, unless it's a brand/-andsoda."

"Ha!-ha-ha!" laughed the big man.

"Unless is a good word."

"Play light with it, Joe, old man.

I'm a bit of an abstemious party in the morning."

"Right you are, my boy—that pienty?"

"said the big man, pouring out the brandy with one hand and reaching for a bettle of soda with the other.
"Here you are—and I'm glad to see you Your health, Jim."

"Your health, Joe," responded Mr.
Claye, sipping the mixture.

"What brings you here at this time, Jim?"

"A little matter of business, Joe.
How's your business, by the by?" asked

"A little matter of business. Joe. How's your business, by the ny?" asked Mr. Clare, sipping his drink with a somewhat preoccupied air.
"Very decent, Jim; very decent. Not quite, perhaps, all that the executors of the late lamented Phelim Hanrahan represented it to be, but not far off," replied the stout man. "I've nothing to grumble at—the takings are a good deal more than they were at the old place in Leeds. I've never regretted coming over here, though there's nothing so certain as the! Ireland isn't England, and especially the Yorkshire part of the predominant partner."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L, Sturtevant, who are spending the summer at their took a cold bath, shaved, dressed, ate a hearty breakfast, left a message for his young friend, Mr. Somerville, who at that moment was also entirely under the influence of Mr. Claye's narcotic, and left the hotel after paying his bill, tipping everybody, and exchanging a pleasant word or two with the manageress.

And like the great man he was, Mr. Claye proceeded straight to Kingsbridge, knowing quite well that if a hue and cry should be raised after him rather earlier than he had expected, Kingsbridge would be the last place in which cause he had told the manageress he was going there.

On the departure platform at Kingsbridge he engaged a dressing room and had his baggage taken into it. And then he exchanged his clerical suit and hat for a tweed suit and soft cap, and with this first change made in his appearance he left the station, baggage and all, in a car whose driver was instructed to take him to Lower Abbey street.

It was still early in the morning, and Mr. Claye held his head erect as he drove along the quay sides and through the carried the bag away and Mr.

It was still early in the morning, and Mr. Claye held his head erect as he drove along the quay sides and through the streets—unlike his late junior partner he was no coward.

Mr. Claye gave his jarvey instructions to pull up at a small establishment in Lower Abey street which was manifestly given over to the sale of drink. The merit of various tipples was freely extolled in the window; on the signboard over the door appeared the name Phelim Hanrahan.

A red-headed boy, lazily wielding a broom, was sweeping the threshold of five distinct times.

A Continuation of This Story Will Be Found In Tomorrow's Issue of The Times.

Judge Mullowny refused to heed excuses, adjudged her guilty of disorderly conduct, and sentenced her to pay a $5 fine. In default, Addle will spend five days in the workhouse for each kiss.

Denies Theft of Silver.

What'll you take, Jim Give it a name."
"Wait till I pay the jarvey, Joe," answered Mr. Claye, who had gripped his friend's hand with as much enthusiasm as the friend had displayed. "I've got a trap or two that I want to bring inside."
"There's a red-headed young devil sweeping outside there," said the big man; "make him carry 'em in. Here

Assistant Secretary of War Oliver Returns to the Capital on Monday

Mrs. Oliver and Miss Mr. and Mrs. Riggs Oliver Will Return in October.

The Assistant Secretary of War, Gen-Robert Shaw Oliver, will return to Washington Monday from Northeast Harbor, where he has been spending several weeks with Mrs. Oliver and Miss Marion Oliver, who are established there for the late summer and autumn. Before returning to Washington in October, Mrs. Oliver and Miss Oliver will

Col. Afexander Rodgers, U. S. A., and Mrs. Rodgers, who are spending the summer in Pennsylvania, will return to their residence in Connecticut avenue the last of October.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Rayner will arrive in Washington next week from Cambridge, Md., where they have spent the summer. spend a short time in New York.

Mrs. J. J. Richardson, wife of Dr. Richardson, is spending a few days in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Sturtevant, who are spending the summer at their place in Maine, will return to Washington the latter part of this month. Mrs. T. Ritchie Stone is spending several weeks in Atlantic City.

Capt. Benjamin S. Richards, U. S. N., and Mrs. Richards, who are making an extended stay in the North, will return to their apartment in the Toronto about the middle of the month.

Maj. Gen. John P. Story, U. S. A., and Mrs. Story will return to Washington from their country place near Annapolis, Md., the latter part of next

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Young and Miss Young, who are traveling abroad, are now at The Hague

Mrs. Robert J. Wynne and Miss Ruth Wynne sailed from New York today for an extended visit to Capt. and Mrs. Hugh Roland French, of the British army, the latter formerly Miss Ida

The Postmaster General, Frank H. Hitchcock, left Washington yesterday to spend several weeks on a hunting trip in the West.

Mrs. Robert L. Taylor, widow of Sen-ator Taylor, of Tennessee, who spent the last week with Mrs. S. B. William-son in her apartment in Sixteenth street, has returned to her father's home in Bristol, Tenn.

Mrs. Gatewood, wife of Medical Director J. D. Gatewood, U. S. N., and the Misses Gatewood, who have been at Woodberry Forrest, near Grange, Va., the greatr part of the summer, have returned to their residence in Nineteenth street.

Miss Dorothy Arkwright and Miss Marjorie Weldon, of Atlanta, Ga., are the guests of their cousin, Miss Maitand Marshall, daughter of Brig Gen. William L. Marshall, U. S. A., and Mrs. Marshall.

Miss Selma Hevn has returned to her Mrs. Harry Friedlander, who has been spending the summer in the Catskills, has returned to her home in Washing-

Miss Bessie Reynor, of Newport News, Va., is spending a few days with Mrs. Abe King, of the Gotham. Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Fleishman and family, formerly of Massachusetts avenue, are now located in their new home n Girard street.

Miss Louise Gruber, of Baltimore, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Ed Kohner. of Belmont street. Miss Bella Schiffman, of Harvard Times Inquiry Department; street, 's spending the week-end in Bal-timore with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kohner and family, who have been spending the summer at Renshaw's cottage near Rockville, have returned to their home

Miss Beatrice Schoeneman returned to her home in Phliadelphia during the week after a visit with friends in Washington.

Mrs. Moses Cohen, who spent the past few weeks with relatives in baltimore, has returned to her home in

Mr. and Mrs. harry Panitz, of Balti-more, spent a few days during the week in Washington as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Selinger, of Columbia Miss Lerraine Herman has returned to her home in the Beacon, after spend-ing some time in Philadelphia as the Miss Sarah Harburger has returned to Washington after spending the summer at the Blue Mountain House, Blue Mountains, Md.

Makes Trip in Interest Of Coming Convention

Dr. C. J. Owens, managing director of souri. He is making the trip in the interest of the fifth annual convention of the congress, which meets in Mobile in the fall of 1913, at the time of the opening of the Panama canal.

Dr. Owens also expects to confer with the governors of the various States relative to the representatives are to tive to the representatives who are to become members of the American com-mission that will go abroad next sum-mer under the auspices of the South-ern Commercial Congress for a study of the European systems of co-operative rural finance.

rural finance.
The commission will be composed of two delegates from each State in the Union, many of whom have already

Washington Man at Opening of Railroad

RIO JANEIRO, Sept. 7 .- The Madeira-Mamore railway, which extends from the coast hundreds of miles into the Brazilian jungle, and the completion of which is considered almost as remarkable a piece of engineering as the building of the Panama canal, was formally opened today with ceremonies in which the representatives of many nations had part. Prominent among the honored guests of the occasion was Dr. Albert Hale, of Washington, D. C., the official representative of the Panamerican Union.

Lieut. Com. Symington Back From Virginia Sails for New Post in London.

President Approves

ried at Manila

Sentence of Dismissal

President Taft approved vesterday the entence of dismissal imposed by courtmartial upon Capt. Jacques de L. Lafitee on a charge of scandalous and dis-honorable conduct. Captain Lafitte was

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Riggs, who spent the last two months at the Virginia Warm Springs, have returned to Washington, and have opened their Lieut. Com. Powers Symington, U. S. residence in S street. Miss Alice Riggs N., recently appointed military attache is at the White Sulphur Springs, where of the American embassy in London, she will remain for several weeks. sailed from New York this morning on Thomas Riggs, jr., who is on the inthe Olympic for his new post. Commander Symington has been in com-mand of the Mayflower, the Presidential ternational boundary survey, and is now in Canada, will arrive in Washing-ton in October. Mrs. Elmore S. Elmore, formerly Miss Kate Riggs, who has just returned to her home in Plattsburg, N. Y., after spending the summer in the North, will spend October with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Riggs, in S street.

Brig. Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, U. S. A., and Mrs. Sharpe, who made an automobile trip earlier in the summer through Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, are now in Canada. They will return to Washington about the middle of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman have gone to Tyringham, Mass., for a week-end visit to Mr. and Mrs. George F. Becker at their country place, Tamar-

Mrs. Spencer Cosby, who is now visiting Miss Shotter at Shadowbrook, Lenox. after spending the summer with Mrs. Frederick Schenck, will return to Washington shortly to join Colonel Cosby.

The former Attorney General and Mrs. Charles J. Bonaparte have gone to Lake Chocorua, in the White Mountains, for a fortnight's stay before returning to their home in Baltimore. They have just concluded their annual visit to Bretton Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kirke Porter have joined Miss Hegeman at Profile House, N. H., for the remainder of the

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. William Eichner have returned to Washington after an ex-tended visit to Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Mann at their country place just out-Mann at their side of Baltimore.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Henning Nelms have returned to Washington from Bethany Beach, where they spent the

Mr. and Mrs. George W. White have returned to Washington from Europe, where they spent the summer touring.

Miss Edna Scott Smith has returned to Washington from North Rye Beach, N. H., where she spent the last month with her parents at their cottage.

Miss Lillie Boykin Brame, daughter of Judge Lex Brame, of Jackson, Miss., is visiting the family of Capt. Fred Beall at 1130 Columbia road. Miss Brame is returning from an extended trip through Europe.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn A. Pressley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pressley to Roscoe C. Strout, of Washington, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Strout will make their home in Washington upon the conclusion of their bridal trip. sion of their bridal trip.

Dr. J. C. Exner has returned to Washington after a month's sojourn at Atlantic City.

THE TIMES Question Box

F. R. S .- The twenty-cent piece of 1775 probably has a premium attached, though it is not listed in the catalogue belonging to this department. If you will send an addressed, stamped envelope, the name of a reliable coin dealer, to whom you can submit your coin for valuation, will be sent you.

Will you please publish a recipe for making grape jam out of ripe grapes. Very truly, F. M. F., Manassas, Va.

Mash some ripe grapes, and place them in a kettle and cook slowly on the side of the stove until the juice flows freely. Pour them into a sleve, and rub them through. To each pint of this juice and pulp, add three-quarters of a pound of sugar, and place over the fire and boil until reduced one-half. Stir continually and remove all scum. When a drop upon a plate will retain the shape of a bead, and not spread, the jam is done. Remove from the fire and place in jars.

Times Inquiry Department:

Please publish a recipe for canned tomatoes in glass, also for chili sauce and tomato sauce. Very truly, NO NAME. Scald ripe tomatoes for a few minutes to the skin will peal off easily, cut them in quarters or place them whole, if desired, into gless jars, packing tightly. Close the jars, fill the boiler or preserving kettle with water, and boil the sealed jars containing the tomotoes for forty-five minutes. Then place in a dark place.

For chili sauce select eighteen large tomatoes, two onlons, two green perpers, three cups vinegar, one tablespoonful salt, four tablespoonfuls brown sugar, one teaspoonful cinnathe Southern Commercial Congress, Left mon, one teaspoonful cloves and one yesterday for a two weeks' 'trip grated nutmeg. Boil all these in a ketthrough Kentucky, Tennessee, and Mis- tie for four hours, then fill into jars or stone crocks. For tomato catsup or sauce: Mash nice, ripe tomatoes to a pulp and allow them to stand for three days. Then rub them through a sieve and place them over a fire and boil without a cover to a creamy thickness. Measure and add to each gallon of the pulp onehalf pound of sugar. one-half cup of salt, one-half pint vinegar, one tea-spoonful cloves, two teaspoonfuls ground mace, half teaspoonful red pepper. Boil ten minutes, then bottle.

Will you please tell me the New York ad-tress of the Roosevelt campaign committee: Fruly.

A BULL MOOSE. The New York headquarters of the Roosevelt campaign committee is in the Manhattan Hotel

LOCAL MENTION.

Evangelist Larkin, of Philadelphia, will sing second Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene, D street northwest, between Third and Fourth streets, Sun-day morning, and sing and preach at the night service; church is made com-fortable by electricity.

A Great 3-Reel Feature, "The Past That Returns' today. Virginia Theater

FOR LITTLE FOLK JUST BEFORE BEDTIME

The Sandman's Stories

CRIPPLED CHARLIE'S CRUTCH

side

ball and hide-and-seek while he had to sit in a chair or hobble about on a crutch. But the boy did not coma crutch. But the boy did not complain.

He knew his father was too poor to take him to the great doctor that lived in the big city, but he would dream all day of the time when he would be able to pay for it himself. He did not know how it was to be—only he felt that some day something would happen by which he could earn enough to go to the doctor who made crippled boys well.

Charlie's father was a switchman at a railroad crossing in a little town about ten miles out of New York, and it was the boy's delight to watch the passing trains, the big, slow freights puffing steadily by, and the express whizzing past like lightning.

Their home was at least a mile from the station, and out of sight of the depot, but with the trains constantly going the boy never got lonely.

One September morning Charlie noticed a strange thing about the rail before their door. It was broken and a passing freight had jarred it from the tie. The father was down at the station in the town, the mother gone to the store, so there was no one near to warn any passenger trains of the danger.

It was almost time for the noonday

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Roth, who are spending the summer abroad, are now at the Hotel Brighton, Paris. Miss Mildred Dean and Miss Owen, who are making a tour of Europe, have jusct concluded a visit of some dura-tion to Dresden.

Mrs. J. Clarke Locksley has arrived in Paris from Carisbad, where she has been taking the cure. She will return to this country shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. J. Archibald, after an extended tour of India and China, have just arrived in Paris and are staying at the Hotel Astoria. Dr. and Mrs. T. Morris Murray, who are spending September at English sea-side resorts, are now at Folkestone.

tion in the town, the mother gone to the store, so there was no one near to warn any passenger trains of the danger.

It was almost time for the noonday express to pass, and the boy grew sick at the thought. The huge express, with its long red coaches full of men and women, would dash by in a few moments and be wrecked. It was useless to call, no one was near enough to hear.

Then he caught sight of one of the red flags his father used stuck in a window in a shed. Hobbling as fast as he could he managed to reach the flag and drag it down, then with it in his hand he crawled down the steep embankment to where the broken rail swas. Far away he heard the shrill scream of the express wheels, then the rumbling of the flying wheels. Louder and louder it grew till the huge, black rushing engine sprang into view around a curve.

that makes lame boys well?"

"I believe I am the one you mean," said the gentleman, smiling at the eager face, "was there anything you wished of me?"

Then, between sobs of joy, Charlie told about his trouble, and the doctor examined him.

"Come to my office in the city next week and I can fix you up so you will be all right in two months," laughed the doctor. "And there is no charge to a boy whom I owe my life."

"And here is something to remember the rest of us by," said another man, coming ferward with a roll of bills in his hand and placing it on the bed beside the boy. "A few hundred dollars will help out, even if the doctor does not charge."

So brave Charlie got well again under the doctor's care, and is now using h's money to put himself through college, where he is studying to be a doctor himself. He was appointed to the Military Academy from Louislana, and gradu-ated June 12, 1891.

HARLIE had been crippled for more than two years. It was hard to see the other boys play ball and hide-and-seek while he to sit in a chair or hobble about on rutch. But the boy did not compatible.

The banks on each side of the track were narrow, but Charlie stuck to his post. Balancing on his well foot, he stuck the crutch through the red flag and swung it above his head. On swept the train like a storm, and before it the lad stood waving the flag from his tiny crutch.

The engineer saw the boyish figure.

The engineer saw the boyish figure, The engineer saw the poyish ngure, the red sign of danger, and slowed down, but not a bit too soon, for the engine ran upon the broken rail and was upset. Yet the coaches were un-hurt.

hurt.

But when the passengers jumped to the ground and hurried to the lad with the crutch in his limp little hand they found him in a faint.

"I am a doctor," sald a gentleman who stepped forward with a bag in his hand. hand.

"He is only in a faint—carry him in-side the house," ordered the doctor. In a few minutes Charlie opened his In a few minutes Charlie opened his eyes.

"Don't be frightened," said the strange gentleman with a smile, "you have only been in a little fainting spell. I am Dr. Graham, of New York, and these gentlemen here are passengers whose lives you have saved."

"Oh," cried Charlie in joy, "are you really Dr. Graham—the great doctor that makes lame boys well?"

"I believe I am the one you mean," said the gentleman, smiling at the

POCKET BOOK DIRECTORY

CONTAINING FULL DESCRIPTION OF

Washington's Most Popular Apartments

Address	No. of Rooms	Rent	Agent	Description
THE WOODWARD Conn. Ave. and Ashmend Place. (South end of Conn. Ave. Bridge.)	3, 5, 6 and 7 rooms and bath.	$40.00 to $115.00.	The F. H. Smith Company, 1408 New York Avenue. Tel- ephone Main 6465-1233.	One of the handsomest and most exclusive apartment houses in the city. Seven stories; entirely fireprocf; con- venient to Conn. ave. cars.
THE ALAMO	1, 8, and 5 rooms and bath,	$18.50 to $35.00.	H. R. Howenstein, 1514 F st. N. W.	Centrally located apartment, all improvements; good ser- vice; and in excellent con- dition.
MANOR HOUSE	5 and 6 rooms.	$40.00 to $50.00.	N. L. Sansbury Co., Inc., 719 13th at, N. W. Phone Main 5904-5905.	Large porch, elevator and telephone service; southwest exposure. All outside rooms. Parfect condition.
NOLANDO 1413 T. St. N. W.	5 rooms and bath	$27.50 $30,50 $32.50	N. L. Sansbury Co., Inc., 719 13th N. W.	Rent Oct. 1; detached build- ing; gas logs, telephone, con- veniently arranged, polite ser- vice. Downtown location.
HUNTINGTON	3 and 5 rooms and bath	$26.50 and $35.00	N. L. Sansbury Co., Inc., 719 13th N. W.	Extra large rooms, porch 7x15 feet, new gas range, newly papered and painted. Rent Oct. 1.
THE SUMMIT	5 and 6 reoms.	$48 & $50 per month.	N. L. Sansbury Co., Inc., 719 13th at. N. W. Main 5904-5.	Strictly up-to-date; parquetry, back porches, shower baths, telephone, handsome fixtures, good service. Noise and fire- proof. Rent from Oct. 1.
THE ST. GEORGE	3 and 4 rooms and bath	$16.00 to $18,50.	N. L. Sansbury Co., Inc., 719 13th st. N. W.	Heat and Janiter Service. All outside rooms. All apartments put in perfect order.
THE CAMBRIA	2, 3, 4 and 5 rooms.	$22.50 to $35.50,	N. L. Sansbury Co., Inc., 719 13th st. N. W. Main 5994-5.	Beautiful location, plenty of light, in excellent condition. Best of service, conveniently arranged; rent from Oct. 1st. Can be seen NOW.
THE NAPLES	2.5 rooms and bath.	$21.50, $30.00, $32.50.	Moore & Hill, 1420-22 H st. N. W. Reptal Agents.	Convenient to the business section and to all Government departments; care, electric elevator; janitor service; conveniently arranged. Very choice location; steam
THE AURORA	3. 4. 5 rooms and bath.	$26.50 to $37.50.	Moore & Hill (Inc.), 1420-22 H st. N. W. Rental Agents.	heat; electric lights; telephons in each apartment; janitor service. Convenient to good car lines. Ideal location.
VERONICA 13th and B Sts. S. W.	and 5 rooms and bath.	$26 to $31.	Phillips Co., 230 John Marshall pl. Phone M. 4487.	Bright, cheerful apartments; located on car line, heated first-class condition, good ser- vice.
THE CLIFTON 1323 Clifton St. N. W.	5 rooms and bath.	$45.50.	Real Estate Trust Co., 1414 F st. N. W.	-Ideal location, overlooking the city of Washington. Large and well kept lawn. Conven- ient to 2 car lines.
THE HOFFMAN 1332 Belmont St. N. W.	2 rooms bath, and back porch.	$30.00	Real Estate Trust Co., 1414 F st. N. W.	Southern exposure. Accessible to two car lines. Splendidly kept building.
THE WILTON	4 rooms and bath.	$32.50, $35.00.	Real Estate Trust Co., 1414 F st. N. W.	Very conveniently, located Good service. One-half block from car line.
THE LESTER	6 rooms and bath.	$35.50 $37.50	Real Estate Trust Co., 1414 F st. N. W.	Centrally located within walk- ing distance of shopping and theatre districts. Accessible to two car lines. Unusually large rooms and back perches.
THE WALLRAFF	3 and 4 rooms and bath.	$27.50, $32.50, $35.50.	Real Estate Trust Co 1414 F st. N. W.	Just off Sixteenth street. Splendidly kept building Apartments light and airy.
THE INGLESIDE	1 and 3 rooms and bath,	$13.50, $22.50, $25.50.	Real Estate Trust Co., 1414 F st. N. W.	Splendidly located in Mount Pleasant. Nicely kept build- ing; good janitor service; all outside rooms.
THE ALTON	4 rooms and bath.	$25.50, $30.00.	Real Estate Trust Co., 1414 F st. N. W.	Near Dupont Circle; in fash- ionable northwest section; all outside rooms.
THE TRUXTON	5 rooms and bath.	$35.00,	Real Estate Trust Co., 1414 F st. N. W.	Accessible to car lines. Walk- ing distance to theatres and shopping district. Well kep: building. Good service.
"THE SANTA ROSA"	1 to 4 rooms and bath.	$20.00 to $42.50 per month.	W. L. PRICE, Apartment 5, 1712 17th st. N. W.	Fireproof, steam heated, hor water, telephone, awnings, tereens, all outside rooms. Con- venient to all oar lines. Fur- nished apartments if desired,
The Mammouth Chambers	2 to 4 rooms and bath.	$25.00 ts $32.50 per mo.	Percy H. Russell, 9th and New York ave. N. W.	Suitable for doctor or dentist. South of Thomas circle. Suite on street floor (front), steam heat. Occupied by physician for five years.
The COYWOOD	2-room bachelor and 4 and 5-room housekeeping.	$20.00, $28.50, $40.00, $42.50.	McLachlen Banking Corpora- tion, 10th and G N. W.	Electric elevator. Handsome building. Convenient and de- sirable location.
THE BALTIMORE	3, 4, 5-room housekeeping Apartments.	$30.00, $35.00, $46.00.	Clare A. Rines, The Baltimore.	A quiet home-like place, where nice people can live at reasonable rates.
THE BERKSHIRE	2 rooms cabinet kitchen and bath	$18.00 $26.00 $22.50	Karrick & Metcalf 1306 I st. N. W. Main 927.	Extra large rooms can be arranged to appear like 3 rooms and bath apartment. Most reasonable in Wash- ington.
THE ALZARADO	4 and 5 rooms rec. hall and bath.	$30.00. $32.50.	Thos. H. Melton, Owner, Eleventh and H Sts.	Every room front: Heat and hot-water: electric lights: tel- ephone and telegraph service from building; janitor Apart- ments open for inspection.
BENEDICK 1808-10 Eye St. N. W.	2 and 3 rooms and bath.	$42.60. to $52.00	J. A. Carey, Resident Manager.	Valet and room service, ice water, shoe polishing, all- night elevator and telephone service; swimming pool, show- ers, meal service to apart's.
THE VAN CORTLANDT	2, 3, and 5 rooms and bath.	$27.50 to $47.50,	Thomas J. Fisher & Co., Inc.	Each spaitment has large and bright rooms. Excellent service. Electric elevator. Near lith st. car line.
THE COLONADE		10000000		Apartments run length of

Thomas J. Fisher & Co., Inc.

building, all outside rooms; acreened perches. Beautifully kept building. Near "U" at-car line.

7 rooms, bath and extra toilet.

1417 Belmont St. N. W. THE COLONADE

1822 U St. N. W.